

- Welcome to In My Shoes, a podcast about different perspectives on shared experiences across the University of Michigan campus. My name is Rebecca Fantone, the host of this podcast. Our upcoming series will focus on how different people in our community experience code switching. Follow along as we meet multiple members of the University of Michigan community from undergraduate, graduate students, and employees of the university, and how they have experienced code switching in their day-to-day lives. Find us on Spotify, Apple podcasts, or SoundCloud for updates on the most recent episodes. Follow us on Twitter @InMyShoes. Hope to see you soon.