AAS 303/Soc.303
Racial and Cultural Contacts

Asst. Prof. Eduardo Bonilla-Silva

The goal of the course is to introduce students to the history and problems that racial minorities have faced in the U.S. Central to our discussions will be our understanding of "racism" not as "prejudice," "ignorance," an "attitude," or a "belief" but rather as a comprehensive historical system. With this framework, we will survey the experiences of African Americans, Chicanos, American Indians, Puerto Ricans, and Asian Americans.
