Personal Identity Wheel

Overview

The Personal Identity Wheel is a worksheet activity that encourages students to reflect on how they identify outside of social identifiers. The worksheet prompts students to list adjectives they would use to describe themselves, skills they have, favorite books, hobbies, etc. Unlike the Social Identity Wheel, this worksheet does not emphasize perception or context. It is best used as an icebreaker activity or in conjunction with the Social Identity Wheel in order to encourage students to reflect on the relationships and dissonances between their personal and social identities. The wheels can be used as a prompt for small or large group discussion or reflective writing on identity by using the Spectrum Activity Questions on Identity.

Goals

1. When used as an icebreaker, this activity can be used to help students find common ground with their peers and learn more about one another, helping students build community.

2. When used in conjunction with the Social Identity Wheel, the Personal Identity Wheel can be further interrogated to consider how students’ identities are or aren’t informed by their social identities.

Implementation

1. View this video to see how to facilitate this activity in your classroom.

2. There are two ways you can approach this activity:
   a. Option A: You can just focus on the Personal Identity Wheel for the activity.
   b. Option B: You can complete both the Personal Identity Wheel and the Social Identity Wheel.

Challenges

1. The students may not perceive the activity as relevant to the course and thus may exhibit resistance.

Materials

1. Personal Identity Wheel Handout

2. If doing Option B: Social Identity Wheel Handout
