AT AGE...
At age 11, you are taught by the media to hate your body because you are not skinny enough or pretty enough.

At age 18, you are told by a relative that you can’t become your dream profession just because of your gender.

At age 19, you recognize that Pink Tax (the extra amount of money women pay for essentially the same products that men pay less for) exists for a variety of important, everyday products.

At age 24, when you desperately need reproductive health care, you discover that your local Planned Parenthood was closed due to it being defunded.
At age 44, you are watching the news with your 12-year-old daughter... This is your breaking point. After a lifetime of being put down and told that you "aren't good enough," you refuse to let your daughter continue to grow up in a society that degrades women. You must be a part of the change you wish to see in the world.

At age 44, you proudly stand up for what you believe in at your local city's Women's March. Along with your daughter, you speak out for women's rights. For the first time in your life, you feel empowered, strong, and hopeful for a better future.
